

Specialty Defense Infrastructure

APS has extensive experience in the design and construction management of specialty defense infrastructure projects. This work commonly involves complicated coordination and communications with multi-national agencies. Our experience with international codes and foreign national contractors make APS uniquely qualified for this important work.

“ Proven experience providing quality services downrange. ”

APS is a full-service technology company offering a wide variety of engineering and project services to a select list of worldwide clients. We provide experienced project managers, engineers and designers, all with real world field experience in their respective disciplines.

We partner with our clients and strive to share their vision of success through the application of practical, constructible and fiscally responsible designs.
